

CSA Notice of Publication of Multilateral Instrument 45-108 *Crowdfunding

November 5, 2015

Introduction

The securities regulatory authorities in Manitoba, Ontario, Québec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia (collectively, the participating jurisdictions or we) are publishing in final form Multilateral Instrument 45-108 Crowdfunding (MI 45-108 or the Rule), which includes a crowdfunding prospectus exemption (the crowdfunding exemption) and a registration framework for funding portals (funding portals) (collectively, the 45-108 crowdfunding regime). We are also making consequential amendments to other rules (the consequential amendments).

The Financial and Consumer Affairs Authority (FCAA) of Saskatchewan, which worked with the participating jurisdictions on the Rule, will be republishing MI 45-108 for a 60 day comment period.

The participating jurisdictions have coordinated their efforts in finalizing the 45-108 crowdfunding regime. In some jurisdictions, Ministerial approvals are required for the implementation of the 45-108 crowdfunding regime. Where applicable, Annex D provides information about each participating jurisdiction's approval process.

Provided all necessary Ministerial approvals are obtained, MI 45-108 will come into force in the participating jurisdictions on January 25, 2016.

Substance and purpose of the 45-108 crowdfunding regime

As securities regulators, we have the responsibility to examine whether securities law contributes to the efficient functioning of our capital markets, while maintaining adequate investor protection. This includes assessing whether the securities regulatory framework remains responsive and relevant in a dynamic environment that is being shaped by advances in technology and a broad array of demographic, cultural and economic forces. The internet and social media have enabled start-ups and technology companies that foster innovation to reach out to a large number of investors, including retail investors (the crowd), to raise capital.

Selling securities over the internet to a large number of investors, sometimes referred to as "crowdfunding", has emerged as a new way for some businesses, particularly start-ups and small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), to access capital that would not have otherwise been accessible. "Crowdfunding" is an umbrella term used to capture many forms of capital and fund raising, that in this context, we mean raising capital from members of the public through the distribution/sale of securities. Crowdfunding may enable issuers to raise capital more effectively and at a lower cost while also providing investors with greater access to investment opportunities. The 45-108 crowdfunding regime is intended to leverage the use of the internet and social media to facilitate capital formation primarily for start-ups and SMEs that foster innovation and to provide new investment opportunities for investors. At the same time, we believe the 45-108 crowdfunding regime maintains an appropriate level of investor protection and regulatory oversight to be responsive both to global market developments in this area and to our mandate to provide protection to investors.

The 45-108 crowdfunding regime will enable start-ups and SMEs in their early-stages of development to raise capital online from a large number of investors through a single registered funding portal. A limit on the total amount that can be raised will be imposed on issuers and investors will be subject to investment limits as a means of limiting their exposure to a highly risky investment. The registration of the funding portal is a key investor protection measure as registration addresses, among other things, potential integrity concerns that may apply to funding portals and the persons operating them, as well as potential concerns relating to conflicts of interest and self-dealing.

We believe the introduction of the 45-108 crowdfunding regime is a significant step in enhancing capital raising alternatives in Canada, particularly for start-ups and SMEs. The introduction of the 45-108 crowdfunding regime in the participating jurisdictions will allow start-ups and SMEs to benefit from greater access to capital from investors that was previously limited.

The 45-108 crowdfunding regime encompasses measures which are intended to provide effective protection for investors, including:

Investment limits	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> investors are subject to the following investment limits: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> an investor that does not qualify as an accredited investor: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> $2,500 per investment, and in Ontario, $10,000 in total in a calendar year, an accredited investor other than a permitted client: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> $25,000 per investment, and in Ontario, $50,000 in total in a calendar year, in Ontario, no investment limits for a permitted client

We note that the use of the internet for raising capital is not restricted to crowdfunding as defined in the 45-108 crowdfunding regime. Many online platforms today are used to raise capital under other prospectus exemptions such as the accredited investor exemption.

Background

On March 20, 2014, the securities regulatory authorities of Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Québec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia published a Notice of Publication and Request for Comment on two different crowdfunding prospectus exemption regimes:

- the start-up crowdfunding registration and prospectus exemptions (the start-up crowdfunding exemptions); and
- the proposed 45-108 crowdfunding regime.

The proposed 45-108 crowdfunding regime was also published on March 20, 2014 (the March 2014 45-108 materials) in a Notice and Request for Comment by the Ontario Securities Commission (OSC), as part of a broad review of the exempt market that would, among other things, introduce four new prospectus exemptions for issuers other than investment funds.

The securities regulatory authorities of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Québec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have implemented the start-up crowdfunding exemptions by way of local blanket orders on May 14, 2015. The 45-108 crowdfunding regime and the start-up crowdfunding exemptions are viewed by those jurisdictions (except for British Columbia, which is not a jurisdiction participating in the 45-108 crowdfunding regime) as complementary regimes, as the 45-108 crowdfunding regime is available to both reporting and non-reporting issuers and provides both higher investment limits for investors and higher limits on the amount issuers can raise.

Summary of written comments received by the participating jurisdictions

The comment period for the March 2014 45-108 materials ended on June 18, 2014. The participating jurisdictions collectively received 70 written submissions. We have considered the comments received and thank all of the commenters for their input.

Comment letters received by the following jurisdictions can be viewed on their websites as noted:

- OSC - www.osc.gov.on.ca
- AMF - www.lautorite.qc.ca/en

A summary of the general themes raised in the comment letters that were received across the participating jurisdictions is set out under the heading “Key themes from the comment letters” below.

Key themes from the comment letters

There were several key themes expressed throughout the comment letters submitted to us. Below is a summary of these key themes.

Investor protection

A significant number of commenters raised concerns related to investor protection. Many of the commenters noted the high probability that investors would lose their entire investment in a start-up or a SME because these businesses typically have low survival rates and there are often issues related to corporate governance, insider trading and integrity concerns.

Some of the commenters further noted that unsophisticated investors are particularly vulnerable in a crowdfunding investment environment. Particular concerns expressed included:

- investors lack the requisite expertise, skills and experience to invest in a crowdfunded offering,
- investors are unfamiliar with start-up investing principles and the risks particular to start-ups and SMEs,
- investors lack sufficient information to make appropriate investment decisions due to the low level of disclosure required of non-reporting issuers under the crowdfunding exemption,
- there will be limited access to ongoing information about a start-up or SME that is a non-reporting issuer,
- investors do not understand and appreciate the restrictions on their ability to resell the shares they purchase, and
- the risk of fraud in a crowdfunding environment, particularly given the increased access of unsophisticated investors to private markets that the exemption would provide and the broad reach afforded by the internet.

As we expand accessibility to the exempt market through crowdfunding, we recognize that investor protection measures are an important component of the framework and we will remain vigilant in monitoring the adequacy of the protection it affords investors. We believe the 45-108 crowdfunding regime we are introducing will provide greater access to capital for start-ups and SMEs and that the framework we are adopting, including the measures noted above, will provide effective protection for investors.

Investment limits

The March 2014 45-108 materials included proposed investment limits for all investors: a $2,500 limit per investment and a $10,000 limit for all investments made by an investor under the crowdfunding exemption in a calendar year. A large number of commenters expressed a range of opinions about the proposed investment limits.

One group of commenters thought the proposed investment limits would frustrate the 45-108 crowdfunding regime's objectives of facilitating capital raising for start-ups and SMEs, would interfere with investors' ability to pursue their investment objectives, and would not provide meaningful investor protection.

Another group of commenters recommended that the dollar amount of the investment limits be reduced for investors. The commenters pointed to the concept of crowdfunding being based on small investments made by a broad pool of investors and the limited amount of funds Canadians have available to invest annually as evidenced by published economic data. The commenters argued that lower investment limits would discourage over-concentration by unsophisticated investors in a risky class of investments.

Several commenters supported removing or increasing investment limits for accredited investors. The arguments in support of this position generally pertained to the relatively high level of sophistication such investors possess and their ability to retain advice and withstand loss.

We continue to believe that investment limits are a necessary and appropriate investor protection tool that can help to reduce the risk associated with an investment in securities under the crowdfunding exemption, while still facilitating capital-raising by start-ups and SMEs. However, in light of the feedback received, we considered different approaches to investment limits under the crowdfunding exemption and have made changes to the investment limits that were proposed in the March 2014 45-108 materials.

Financial statement assurance requirements for non-reporting issuers and other financial disclosure

Several commenters provided feedback regarding the proposed assurance requirements for the financial statements of a non-reporting issuer that distributes securities in reliance on the crowdfunding exemption. The commenters' recommendations on non-reporting issuers' financial statements included a mandatory audit, a review being sufficient and a tiered approach to assurance requirements.

We continue to support a tiered approach to financial statement assurance requirements. After considering the comments, we have simplified and raised the thresholds based on the amount an issuer has raised under one or more prospectus exemptions since its formation. As such, a non-reporting issuer's financial statements will be required to be:

- audited or reviewed by a public accounting firm if the cumulative amount an issuer has raised under prospectus exemptions since its formation is $250,000 or more but is less than $750,000, or
- audited if the cumulative amount an issuer has raised under prospectus exemptions since its formation is $750,000 or more.

We think these thresholds strike an appropriate balance between providing investors with reliable financial information and not imposing a disproportionate financial burden on start-ups and SMEs that have limited financial resources to pursue their business.

Offering limit

Several commenters expressed views about the proposed $1.5 million limit on the aggregate amount that could be raised by an issuer group under the crowdfunding exemption. Although several commenters supported the proposed limit, an equal number of commenters thought the limit should be higher.

We maintain that a limit of $1.5 million is appropriate. The focus of the crowdfunding exemption is to facilitate capital raising by start-ups and SMEs, and the proposed limit is commensurate with the capital needs of issuers at this stage of development. There are other prospectus exemptions available to address the needs of issuers at more advanced stages of development.

Funding portal registration in other registration categories and use of the crowdfunding exemption

Many commenters disagreed with the prohibition on a funding portal against being registered in another registration category and suggested other registrants should be allowed to use the crowdfunding exemption. These commenters noted that registrants in other categories would have the experience and expertise to perform the work and comply with requirements in the Rule. They also noted that this restriction would increase complexity and costs for an issuer raising funds under multiple prospectus exemptions, and limiting funding portals to one prospectus exemption would prevent funding portals from being economically viable.

We considered the comments received and amended the March 2014 45-108 materials to permit registered dealers, such as investment dealers and exempt market dealers, to use the crowdfunding exemption. However, these registered dealers will need to comply with all of the requirements applicable to their registration category, including performing specific know-your-client and know-your product due diligence on the issuers, in addition to the requirements applicable to a funding portal as set out in the Rule.

However, a funding portal registered as a restricted dealer is a specialized type of restricted dealer that can only rely on the crowdfunding exemption to facilitate distributions of simple securities and their review of issuers will be limited in comparison to the know-your-product obligations of investment dealers and exempt market dealers relying on the crowdfunding exemption. In light of the limited activities of the restricted dealer funding portal, they will not be required to conduct a suitability assessment for the investor and will not assess the merits or expected returns of an investment. Rather, the restricted dealer funding portal will provide a gatekeeper role focused on compliance by issuers with the requirements of the Rule. Considering the limited activities of the restricted dealer funding portal, we continue to believe a funding portal that is registered as a restricted dealer in accordance with the Rule should not be registered in any other registration category, and, in Ontario, should not be affiliated with another registered firm.

Custodial requirements – holding, handling or having access to purchaser funds or assets

Many commenters expressed an opinion on the restriction on holding, handling, or having access to client funds or securities by funding portals.

We acknowledge these comments and agree that client funds and assets would be better protected if they were held by the funding portal that is subject to capital and insurance requirements. We have amended the March 2014 45-108 materials so that a funding portal registered in the category of restricted dealer will be permitted to hold, handle, control or have access to purchaser funds provided the restricted dealer funding portal maintains the minimum capital requirement and fidelity bond insurance requirements equivalent to an exempt market dealer. Funding portals that are registered as exempt market dealers and investment dealers will be required to comply with the capital and insurance requirements applicable to their registration category and where applicable, as required by the Investment Industry Regulatory Organization of Canada.

Advertising and solicitation

The March 2014 45-108 materials proposed that all relevant information about a crowdfunding offering would be required to be made available only on the funding portal's online platform through which the distribution was to be made and not on any other website. An issuer could inform potential investors that the issuer was proposing to offer its securities under the crowdfunding exemption and refer the potential investors to the online platform of the funding portal for more information.

Commenters generally supported, or did not believe it was inappropriate to have, reasonable restrictions on advertising and solicitation by funding portals and issuers relying on the crowdfunding exemption. However, some commenters disagreed with the restrictions on advertising and solicitation by funding portals and issuers. They felt that limiting avenues or channels through which investors receive information or advertisements about an investment opportunity would be a detriment to an issuer seeking capital and to investors seeking as much information as possible about a potential investment. These commenters suggested that other means of communication, such as e-mail, text, or verbal communications, should also be permitted.

We note that an issuer is permitted to inform potential investors of its offering on the funding portal's online platform and may use any form of communication (e.g., text, email or posters) it chooses to direct potential investors to the funding portal's online platform. We continue to believe that all materials pertaining to a crowdfunding offering (including terms sheets and videos) should only be made available to potential investors on the funding portal's online platform for ease of investor reference and to facilitate the exchange of information and views that is conducive to eliciting the "wisdom of the crowd". This will also allow the funding portal to ensure that all materials of the issuer are consistent with the crowdfunding offering document and comply with the requirements on advertising and solicitation.

The funding portal is able to advertise its business. For example, it can advertise the fact that crowdfunding offerings could be made through the funding portal and the fact that information about such offerings would be posted on its online platform.

Changes to the March 2014 45-108 materials

After considering the comments received and consultations with stakeholders, we have made some changes to the proposal that was published for comment. We do not consider the changes made since the publication for comment to be material and therefore are not republishing the 45-108 crowdfunding regime for a further comment period.

Annex C contains a summary of notable changes between the March 2014 45-108 materials published for comment and the final publication.

Consequential amendments

National amendments

We are making consequential amendments to the following instrument:

- National Instrument 45-102 Resale of Securities so that securities distributed under the crowdfunding exemption are subject to a “restricted period” on resale.

In Québec, the consequential amendment to National Instrument 45-102 Resale of Securities are published for comment for a 30-day comment period. The consequential amendment is intended to come into force in Québec at the same time MI 45-108 comes into force on January 25, 2016.

Local amendments

Any changes to local rules or policies will be identified in a local notice, where applicable.

Local notices

An annex is being published in any local jurisdiction that is making related changes to local securities laws and sets out any additional information that is relevant to that jurisdiction only.

Instructions related to financial statement requirements and the disclosure of other financial information

What constitutes an issuer's first financial year - The first financial year of an issuer commences on the date of its incorporation or organization and ends at the close of that financial year.

What would be presented in an issuer's financial statements if the issuer has not completed a financial year - The financial statements would include the financial statements listed in paragraphs 4.1(1)(a), (b), (c) and (e) [Comparative annual financial statements and audit] of National Instrument 51-102 Continuous Disclosure Obligations for the period from the date of the formation of the issuer to a date not more than 90 days before the date of this crowdfunding offering document. The financial statements would not include a comparative period.

What financial years need to be audited or reviewed - If an issuer is required to have an auditor's report or review report accompany its financial statements in accordance with subparagraph 3(c)(i) of this schedule, the financial statements for the most recent period and the comparative period, if any, are both required to be audited or are both required to be reviewed.

Statement required in annual financial statements that have not been audited or reviewed – Paragraph 3(i) of this schedule requires that if an issuer's annual financial statements are not accompanied by an auditor's report or a review report prepared by a public accountant, the financial statements must include a statement that discloses that fact. Consistent with the requirements set out in subparagraph 3(c)(i) of this schedule, an issuer's annual financial statements are not required to be audited or reviewed by a public accountant if the issuer has raised less than $250,000 under one or more prospectus exemptions from the date of the formation of the issuer until 90 days before the date of this crowdfunding offering document.

What financial reporting framework is identified in the financial statements, and any accompanying auditor's report or review report - If an issuer's financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian GAAP for publicly accountable enterprises and include an unreserved statement of compliance with IFRS, the auditor's report or review report must refer to IFRS as the applicable financial reporting framework.

There are two options for referring to the financial reporting framework in the applicable financial statements and accompanying auditor's report or review report:

- (a) refer only to IFRS in the notes to the financial statements and in the auditor's report or review report, or
- (b) refer to both IFRS and Canadian GAAP in the notes to the financial statements and in the auditor's report or review report.

Non-GAAP financial measures - An issuer that intends to disclose non-GAAP financial measures in its crowdfunding offering document should refer to CSA guidance for a discussion of staff expectations concerning the use of these measures.

SCHEDULE 1 PERSONAL INFORMATION COLLECTION POLICY

The funding portal collects, uses and discloses personal information from every director, executive officer, and promoter of an issuer relying on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption for the purpose of complying with its obligations under Multilateral Instrument 45-108 Crowdfunding (“MI 45-108”), including conducting criminal record and background checks; verifying the information provided in the Personal Information Form and Authorization to Collect, Use and Disclose Personal Information (the “Personal Information Form”); reviewing the crowdfunding offering document and other materials for incorrect, incomplete and misleading information; identifying whether the issuer or any of its directors, executive officers, or promoters has been convicted of an offence related to or has entered into a settlement agreement in a matter that involved fraud or securities law violations; and making a good faith determination as to whether (i) the business of the issuer may not be conducted with integrity; (ii) the issuer is not complying with one or more of its obligations under MI 45-108; and (iii) the crowdfunding offering document and other materials contain a statement or information that constitutes a misrepresentation or an untrue statement of a material fact.

You understand that by signing the certificate and consent in the Personal Information Form, you are consenting to the funding portal collecting and using your personal information in the Personal Information Form, as well as any other information that may be necessary for the purposes described above (the “Information”).

You also understand and agree that the Information the funding portal collects about you may also be disclosed, as permitted by law, where its use and disclosure is for the purposes described above. The funding portal may use a third party to conduct the criminal record and background checks and to process the Information, but when this happens, the third party will be carefully selected and obligated to comply with the limited use restrictions described above and with applicable privacy legislation. You understand that by signing the certificate and consent in the Personal Information Form, you are consenting to the funding portal disclosing your Information to, and to the collection, use and disclosure of your Information by, the third party service provider for the purposes of providing these services to the funding portal.

You understand that the funding portal, upon request of the securities regulatory authorities or regulators (as defined in section 1.1 of National Instrument 14-101 Definitions), is required to deliver the Information to the securities regulatory authorities or regulators because the issuer has relied upon the crowdfunding prospectus exemption. The securities regulatory authorities and the regulators collect, use and disclose the Information under the authority granted to them under provincial securities legislation for the purpose of enabling the securities regulatory authorities and regulators to administer and enforce provincial securities legislation. You understand that by signing the certificate and consent in the Personal Information Form, you are consenting to disclosure of your Information by the funding portal to the securities regulatory authorities and regulators upon their request.

You also understand that you have a right to be informed of the existence of personal information about you that is kept by funding portals, securities regulatory authorities and regulators, that you have the right to request access to that information, and that you have the right to request that such information be corrected, subject to the provisions of the applicable privacy legislation.

Warning: It is an offence to submit information that, in a material respect and at the time and in the light of the circumstances in which it is submitted, is misleading or untrue.

Questions: If you have any questions about the collection, use, and disclosure of the information you provide, you may contact the funding portal at: [Instructions: Provide an address and telephone number where an individual who has provided personal information can contact the funding portal.]

Companion Policy 45-108CP Crowdfunding

Companion Policy 45-108CP Crowdfunding

PREAMBLE TO COMPANION POLICY

Purpose of this Companion Policy

This Companion Policy sets out how the participating members of the Canadian Securities Administrators (CSA) (the “participating CSA members” or “we”) interpret or apply the provisions of Multilateral Instrument 45-108 Crowdfunding (the “Instrument”), including the required forms, and related securities legislation.

The Instrument provides

- (a) in Part 2, a prospectus exemption for eligible crowdfunding issuers that wish to make a crowdfunding distribution,
- (b) in Part 3, the registration requirements for funding portals, and
- (c) in Part 4, who can grant exemptions from the Instrument.

References to the Instrument

Except for Part 1, all references in this Companion Policy to parts, divisions and sections are to the Instrument, unless otherwise noted. Any general guidance for a part or a division appears immediately after the reference to that part or division name. Any specific guidance on sections in the Instrument follows any general guidance. If there is no guidance for a part, division or section, the numbering in this Companion Policy will skip to the next provision that does have guidance.

Models of crowdfunding

Crowdfunding is a method of funding a project or venture through amounts of money raised from members of the public over the internet via an online portal. There are at least four examples of crowdfunding models:

- (a) the donation model, which is the practice of the crowd donating to a project or venture in exchange for nothing of tangible value;
- (b) the reward model, which is the practice of the crowd donating to a project or venture in exchange for some tangible reward, perk or benefit;
- (c) the pre-purchase model, which is the practice of the crowd donating to a project or venture in exchange for a future tangible reward, such as a consumer product; and

- (d) the securities-based model, which is the practice of the crowd investing in an issuer and its business in exchange for the issuer’s securities, which are often equity securities but may include other types of securities, including debt securities.

Applicability of securities legislation

In this Companion Policy, when we refer to a “crowdfunding offering”, we are referring to a distribution of securities made in reliance on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption through a funding portal as described in the Instrument.

Crowdfunding activities that are limited to the donation model, reward model and/or pre-purchase model generally will not constitute or involve a distribution of securities. However, crowdfunding offerings using the securities-based model will involve an offering of securities. Issuers that wish to make a crowdfunding offering using the securities-based model will always be subject to securities legislation.

Securities-based and non-securities-based crowdfunding

An issuer may wish to include both securities and non-securities rewards or benefits in a crowdfunding offering. Permitting an issuer to do so may enable an issuer to derive the benefits of both securities-based and non-securities based crowdfunding. An issuer must disclose in item 5.1 of the crowdfunding offering document a description of any additional rewards or benefits being offered that are not securities.

All distributions and other trades are subject to securities legislation

The securities legislation of a local jurisdiction applies to any distribution of a security in that jurisdiction, whether or not the issuer of the security is an issuer in that jurisdiction. A person or company who engages in a distribution must comply with the securities legislation of each jurisdiction in which the distribution occurs. That may include the requirement that such person or company be registered under securities legislation.

A funding portal that carries on business in a jurisdiction (either by facilitating offerings of issuers in that jurisdiction and/or by facilitating offerings to investors in that jurisdiction) must be registered in that jurisdiction.

Multi-jurisdictional distributions

A distribution can occur in more than one jurisdiction. If it does, the person or company conducting the distribution must comply with the securities legislation of each jurisdiction in which the distribution occurs. For example, a distribution from a person or company in Québec to a purchaser in Ontario may be considered a distribution in both jurisdictions.

PART 1 DEFINITIONS AND INTERPRETATION

Defined terms used in this Companion Policy have the meaning ascribed to them in the Instrument unless otherwise noted.

Terms defined or interpreted in other instruments

- (1) Director – The term “director” referred to in Part 3 is defined in the provincial securities legislation of each of the participating CSA members.

- (2) Officer – The term “officer” referred to in Part 3 is defined in the provincial securities legislation of each of the participating CSA members.
- (3) Principal Regulator – A registered dealer funding portal’s principal regulator generally will be determined in accordance with section 4A.1 of Multilateral Instrument 11-102 Passport System. This means that the principal regulator will usually be the securities regulatory authority or regulator in the jurisdiction where the funding portal’s head office is located.
- (4) Funding portal – There are two types of funding portals that can facilitate distributions of securities in reliance on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption:
- (a) a funding portal registered in the category of restricted dealer and defined in the Instrument as a restricted dealer funding portal; or
- (b) a funding portal registered in the category of investment dealer or exempt market dealer and defined in the Instrument as a registered dealer funding portal.

(a) Restricted dealer funding portal

The restricted dealer category is described in paragraph 7.1(2)(e) of National Instrument 31-103 Registration Requirements, Exemptions and Ongoing Registrant Obligations (NI 31-103) and permits specialized dealers or other intermediaries with an unconventional business model to carry on a limited trading business, subject to terms and conditions restricting their activities. The restricted dealer funding portal is intended to be a specialized type of restricted dealer with limited permitted dealing activities as described in section 41 [Permitted dealing activities]. Accordingly, the regulatory framework for a restricted dealer funding portal described in Part 3, including the exemptions from certain usual registrant requirements described in subparagraph 21(b)(ii)[Restricted dealer funding portal], is not available to other types of registrants that facilitate the sale of securities through an online portal. A restricted dealer funding portal will not be permitted to obtain dual registration in another registration category.

Except in Ontario, a restricted dealer funding portal may be affiliated with another registered dealer, registered adviser or registered investment fund manager. A restricted dealer funding portal that is affiliated with another registered firm must establish internal controls and appropriate policies and procedures to manage the risks associated with operating an affiliated restricted dealer funding portal. A restricted dealer funding portal should refer to section 13.4 of Companion Policy 31-103 Registration Requirements, Exemptions and Ongoing Registrant Obligations (31-103CP) to consider ways to identify and respond to conflicts of interest, including avoiding the conflict if it is significant and cannot be managed appropriately. In addition, a restricted dealer funding portal should be aware of other CSA guidance on registrant obligations to identify and respond to conflicts of interest.

(b) Registered dealer funding portal

We recognize that other categories of registered dealers, such as investment dealers and exempt market dealers, may operate online portals that facilitate distributions of securities in reliance on other prospectus exemptions, such as the accredited investor exemption in section 2.3 of National Instrument 45-106 Prospectus Exemptions (NI 45-106) or the offering memorandum exemption in section 2.9 of NI 45-106. An investment dealer or exempt market dealer may facilitate distributions of securities in reliance on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption; however, they are required to comply with all of their registrant obligations under securities legislation and Divisions 1 and 2 of Part 3.

- (5) Registered individual – The term “registered individual” is defined in NI 31-103 and ordinarily refers to an individual who is registered as the ultimate designated person (UDP), chief compliance officer (CCO) or a dealing or advising representative of a registered firm. A restricted dealer funding portal is not permitted to provide recommendations or advice to purchasers. Therefore, we do not expect a restricted dealer funding portal will require an individual registered as a dealing or advising representative.

CROWDFUNDING PROSPECTUS EXEMPTION

Division 1: Distribution requirements

Reporting and non-reporting issuers – The definition of “eligible crowdfunding issuer” in section 1 [Definitions] outlines certain requirements for the issuer to be eligible to rely on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption. Subject to satisfying these requirements, the crowdfunding prospectus exemption is available to both reporting issuers and non-reporting issuers.

Crowdfunding prospectus exemption

- 5.(1) Distribution period – The Instrument contemplates a distribution period that, in accordance with paragraph 5(1)(a) [Crowdfunding prospectus exemption], must end no later than 90 days after the date the issuer first offers its securities to purchasers under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption. If an issuer cannot complete an offering within the distribution period, the distribution period will expire. An issuer may commence a new crowdfunding offering so long as the issuer is in compliance with subsection 5(2) [Crowdfunding prospectus exemption].

Issuer group limit – Paragraph 5(1)(b) [Crowdfunding prospectus exemption] imposes a $1,500,000 limit on the aggregate proceeds that can be raised by an issuer group under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption within the 12-month period ending on the last day of the distribution period. For example, suppose an issuer group consists of Issuer A, Issuer B and Issuer C. Issuer A proposes to distribute securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption and the last day of the distribution period will be March 15, 2015. In this case, the 12-month period to which the $1,500,000 limit applies will commence on March 16, 2014 and end on March 15, 2015. If Issuer B has raised $600,000 under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption during that same 12 month period (i.e., March 16, 2014 to March 15, 2015), the maximum amount Issuer A could raise under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption will be $900,000 ($1,500,000 minus $600,000).

If, in addition, Issuer C proposes to raise a maximum of $300,000 in a concurrent distribution under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption that will end on or prior to March 15, 2015, since this is within the same 12 month period, the maximum amount Issuer A could now raise under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption will be $600,000 ($1,500,000 minus ($600,000 + $300,000)) in order to ensure compliance with the $1,500,000 offering limit for the issuer group.

Investment Limits – Paragraphs 5(1) (c) and (d) [Crowdfunding prospectus exemption] impose investment limits on purchasers of securities distributed under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption. In all the jurisdictions, a purchaser that is not an accredited investor is subject to an investment limit of $2,500 per distribution and in Ontario, such purchaser is also subject to an annual investment limit of $10,000 for all distributions made in reliance on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption in the same calendar year. In all jurisdictions, an accredited investor is subject to an investment limit of $25,000 per distribution and in Ontario, an accredited investor is also subject to an annual investment limit of $50,000 for all distributions made in reliance on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption in the same calendar year. In Ontario, an investor that is a permitted client is not subject to an investment limit.

- 5.(2) The crowdfunding prospectus exemption is not available to an issuer if any of the conditions in subsection 5(2) [Crowdfunding prospectus exemption] apply. For example, an issuer that uses the proceeds to invest in, merge with or acquire an unspecified business, commonly referred to as a blind pool, is excluded from using the crowdfunding prospectus exemption.

Conditions for closing of the distribution

6. Concurrent distributions – Eligible securities are defined in section 1 [Definitions]. An eligible crowdfunding issuer can distribute securities under other prospectus exemptions, such as the accredited investor exemption in section 2.3 of NI 45-106 or the offering memorandum exemption in section 2.9 of NI 45-106, during the distribution period. Securities distributed under other prospectus exemptions do not need to have the same price, terms and conditions as those distributed under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption. However, the issuer must ensure compliance with the conditions of the prospectus exemption being relied upon for the distribution. Information about any concurrent distribution, including a concurrent distribution by a member of the issuer group, must be disclosed in the crowdfunding offering document.

Risk acknowledgement form – The issuer must ensure upon closing of the distribution that they receive from the funding portal a Form 45-108F2 Risk Acknowledgement (Form 45-108F2) from each purchaser in which the purchaser has positively responded to each question in Form 45-108F2.

Confirmation of investment limits – In each jurisdiction other than Ontario, the issuer must ensure upon closing of the distribution that they receive from the funding portal confirmation that the purchaser is an accredited investor if the acquisition cost is greater than $2,500. In Ontario, the issuer must receive a Form 45-108F3 Confirmation of investment limits (Form 45-108F3) for each purchaser regardless of the acquisition cost to the purchaser.

Closing of the distribution – If the closing of the distribution does not take place within 30 days of the end of the distribution period, the funding portal is required to promptly return to the purchaser all funds and assets received from a purchaser in connection with the distribution under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption.

Liability for misrepresentation – reporting issuers

9. In Ontario, the crowdfunding offering document required to be filed by an issuer under the Instrument is considered to be an offering memorandum and the rights available under section 130.1 of the Securities Act (Ontario) apply. Refer to Ontario Securities Commission (OSC) Rule 45-501 Ontario Prospectus and Registration Exemptions and the related Companion Policy for more information. Under section 9 [Liability for misrepresentation – reporting issuers], an issuer must provide a purchaser with a contractual right equivalent to the right in section 130.1 of the Securities Act (Ontario) for any materials made available to a purchaser in addition to the crowdfunding offering document, if the securities legislation of the jurisdiction in which a purchaser resides does not provide a comparable right.

In Québec, the crowdfunding offering document and any other materials that are made available to purchasers by a reporting issuer are documents authorized by the Autorité des marchés financiers for use in lieu of a prospectus in regards to which rights of action established in section 217 to 221 of Securities Act (Québec) may be exercised.

In Nova Scotia, the crowdfunding offering document required to be filed by an issuer under the Instrument is considered to be an offering memorandum and the rights available under section 138 of the Securities Act (Nova Scotia) apply. Refer to Nova Scotia Securities Commission Rule 45-501 Statutory Liability for Misrepresentations in an Offering Memorandum Under Certain Exemptions From the Prospectus Requirement and the related Companion Policy for more information. Under section 9 [Liability for misrepresentation – reporting issuers], an issuer must provide a purchaser with a contractual right equivalent to the right in section 138 of the Securities Act (Nova Scotia) for any materials made available to a purchaser in addition to the crowdfunding offering document.

Liability for untrue statement – non-reporting issuers

10. The crowdfunding offering document required to be filed by an issuer that is not a reporting issuer must contain a contractual right of action against the issuer for rescission and damages that is available to the purchaser if the crowdfunding offering document or other permitted materials made available to the purchaser contains an untrue statement of a material fact.

Advertising and general solicitation

11. An eligible crowdfunding issuer cannot advertise the distribution or solicit purchasers, except as permitted in subsection 11(2) [Advertising and general solicitation]. An issuer may inform purchasers, including the issuer’s customers and clients, that the issuer is proposing to offer its securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption and refer the customers and clients to the funding portal facilitating the distribution. This direction can be provided through the use of social media or in paper format. However, in all cases, the direction must be limited to directing the purchasers, including the issuer’s customers and clients, to the funding portal’s online platform to obtain relevant information about the distribution.

We anticipate that issuers will want to use social media to harness the “wisdom of the crowd” in a crowdfunding offering. Although an issuer cannot advertise the distribution or solicit purchasers, an issuer may participate in communication channels or discussion boards to encourage purchasers to discuss the crowdfunding distribution, if the funding portal establishes one. An issuer is reminded that it cannot post any statement or information on the funding portal’s online platform that is inconsistent with the crowdfunding offering document or the Instrument.

Commissions or fees

13. Section 13 [Commissions or fees] prohibits payment of a commission, finder’s fee, referral fee or similar payment by any person or company in the issuer group to any person or company in connection with a crowdfunding distribution, other than to a funding portal. This is meant to mitigate against potential conflicts of interest. However, this restriction is not intended to prohibit payments to persons or companies as compensation for their services to an issuer in preparing materials in connection with a crowdfunding offering, such as accounting or legal fees.

Division 2: Ongoing disclosure requirements for non-reporting issuers

Division 2 [Ongoing disclosure requirements for non-reporting issuers] prescribes ongoing disclosure obligations for non-reporting issuers that distribute securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption.

Non-reporting issuers are required to make available to the purchaser certain ongoing disclosure documents. These include annual financial statements, notices disclosing the use of proceeds, and in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario, notices of specified key events. We anticipate issuers generally will choose to make these documents available to purchasers electronically. However, an issuer may also make these documents available in paper format. We expect an issuer to take reasonable steps to ensure that all purchasers receive or have access to the documents promptly.

We consider ongoing disclosure documents to have been made reasonably available to each holder of a security acquired under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption if the documents are made available through the funding portal or are mailed to security holders, or if security holders receive an electronic notice that the annual financial statements, the notices disclosing the use of proceeds, and in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario, the notices of specified key events can be viewed on a public website of the issuer or a website accessible by all holders of securities of the issuer that were acquired under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption (such as a password protected website).

For reporting issuers that distribute securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption, all applicable continuous disclosure obligations under securities legislation continue to apply.

Annual financial statements

16. What constitutes an issuer's first financial year? - The first financial year of an issuer commences on the date of its incorporation or organization and ends at the close of that financial year.

What financial years need to be audited or reviewed? - If an issuer is required to have an auditor's report or review report accompany its financial statements in accordance with paragraph 16(2)(a) [Annual financial statements], the financial statements for the most recent period and the comparative period, if any, are both required to be audited or are both required to be reviewed.

Statement required in annual financial statements that have not been audited or reviewed – Subsection 16(8) [Annual financial statements] requires that if an issuer's annual financial statements are not accompanied by an auditor's report or a review report prepared by a public accountant, the financial statements must include a statement which discloses that fact. As set out in subsection 16(2) [Annual financial statements], an issuer's annual financial statements are not required to be audited or reviewed by a public accountant if the issuer has raised less than $250,000 under one or more prospectus exemptions from the date of its formation until the end of its most recently completed financial year.

What financial reporting framework is identified in the financial statements and in any accompanying auditor's report or review report? – If an issuer's financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian GAAP for publicly accountable enterprises and include an unreserved statement of compliance with IFRS, the auditor's report or review report must refer to IFRS as the applicable financial reporting framework.

There are two options for referring to the financial reporting framework in the applicable financial statements and accompanying auditor's report or review report:

- (a) refer only to IFRS in the notes to the financial statements and in the auditor's report or review report; or
- (b) refer to both IFRS and Canadian GAAP in the notes to the financial statements and in the auditor's report or review report.

Non-GAAP financial measures – An issuer that intends to disclose non-GAAP financial measures, including in its crowdfunding offering document, should refer to CSA guidance for a discussion on staff's expectations concerning the use of these measures.

Annual disclosure of use of proceeds

- 17.(1) Section 17 [Annual disclosure of use of proceeds] requires that an issuer's annual financial statements be accompanied by a notice that discloses in detail, how the gross proceeds raised by the issuer in a distribution under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption have been spent. The information in the notice is to be provided as at the date of the issuer's most recently completed financial year.

While specific disclosure is not prescribed for the notice, issuers should carefully consider whether the disclosure being provided contains sufficient detail for a security holder to understand how the proceeds have been used. For example, the level of detail expected in the notice of proceeds could include a breakdown of the amount of proceeds that were allocated to fees (including management or service provider fees), salaries or other compensation paid, asset purchases made or development costs.

If, at the date of the notice, there are funds raised by the issuer in a distribution under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption that have not been used, the notice should disclose that fact as well as the amount of the unused proceeds. The amount of the proceeds used together with the amount of unused proceeds, if any, should equal the gross proceeds raised by the issuer in the distribution under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption.

We expect the actual use of the proceeds as disclosed in the notice to be consistent with the issuer's intended use of proceeds as disclosed in the crowdfunding offering document.

If the proceeds of a crowdfunding distribution have been distributed to an entity that is related to the issuer (for example, an issuer in the same corporate structure), then the issuer should provide disclosure as to how the proceeds were used by that entity.

Notice of specified key events

18. In addition to annual financial statements and the notice of how the proceeds raised under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption have been used, non-reporting issuers that issue securities in reliance on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario must also make available a notice of specified key events to each holder of a security acquired under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption, within 10 days of the occurrence of the event. These events are considered to be significant changes in the business of the issuer that purchasers should be notified of. This requirement is in addition to any similar requirement under corporate law and also applies to non-reporting issuers with non-corporate structures, such as trusts and partnerships.

In making a determination as to whether an issuer's industry has changed, issuers may consider whether they would identify a different industry category on Form 45-106F1 Report of Exempt Distribution than the category previously identified.

A non-reporting issuer must continue to provide notice of the specified key events, if applicable, until the earliest of the following events: (i) the issuer becomes a reporting issuer; (ii) the issuer has completed a winding up or dissolution; (iii) the securities of the issuer are beneficially owned, directly or indirectly, by fewer than 51 security holders worldwide.

PART 3 REQUIREMENTS FOR FUNDING PORTALS

Division 1: Registration requirements, general

Division 1 [Registration requirements, general] sets out the registration requirements for both a restricted dealer funding portal and a registered dealer funding portal.

Restricted dealer funding portal

21. A restricted dealer funding portal and a registered individual of a restricted dealer funding portal must comply with the requirements set out in Part 3.

Although a restricted dealer funding portal is not required to comply with section 13.3 of NI 31-103 or collect client specific know your client information as contemplated by paragraph 13.2(2)(c) of NI 31-103, a restricted dealer funding portal is still required to establish the identity of, and to conduct due diligence on its clients under the general know-your-client obligation set out in section 13.2 of NI 31-103.

Registered dealer funding portal

22. A crowdfunding distribution must be made through a single funding portal. A registered dealer who currently distributes securities online under other prospectus exemptions, such as the accredited investor exemption in section 2.3 of NI 45-106 or the offering memorandum exemption in section 2.9 of NI 45-106, will already have in place the infrastructure required to facilitate distributions of securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption through an online platform. However, these registered dealers will be required to ensure they have the necessary policies and procedures in place to comply with Part 3, as applicable. For those registered dealers who do not currently distribute securities online and intend to use the crowdfunding prospectus exemption, they must establish an online funding portal to distribute the securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption in accordance with the Instrument.

A registered dealer that proposes to distribute securities under the Instrument must file a Form 33-109F5 Change of Registration Information that describes the change in its business operations.

Division 2: Registration requirements, funding portals

General

Although a funding portal enters into a contractual relationship with an eligible crowdfunding issuer, the funding portal also has a relationship with a purchaser investing through the funding portal. These purchasers are clients of the funding portal. A funding portal and its registered individuals must deal fairly, honestly and in good faith with a purchaser. This is consistent with the obligation imposed on all registered dealers and advisers under securities legislation. As a registrant, we expect a funding portal to follow the letter of the law and also the spirit of the law. For example, a funding portal that requires a purchaser to sign an agreement that contains an inappropriate waiver of liability or that attempts to transfer its responsibilities to the purchaser, is engaging in conduct that is not consistent with the principle of dealing fairly, honestly and in good faith with a purchaser.

A funding portal must be aware of and act in compliance with the terms of the exemption being relied upon for the trade or distribution of the security. For example, the funding portal must confirm and validate that the purchaser is investing within the investment limits set out in the Instrument.

Restricted dealing activities

- 23.(1) Section 23 [Restricted dealing activities] provides that a funding portal and a registered individual of a funding portal must not allow an issuer access to the funding portal if the issuer is a “related issuer” of the funding portal. The definition of a “related issuer” is described in National Instrument 33-105 Underwriting Conflicts (NI 33-105) and generally refers to a situation where there is cross-ownership between an issuer and a registrant. Subsection 1.2(2) of NI 33-105 provides that an entity is a related issuer to another entity if one of them is an “influential security holder” of the other or if each of them is a related issuer of the same third party.

If a funding portal proposes to allow an issuer that is a connected issuer access to the funding portal, the funding portal should ensure that the issuer’s offering documents include the disclosure required by Appendix C to NI 33-105. The definition of a “connected issuer” is described in NI 33-105 and generally refers to a situation where an issuer may not be a related issuer of the registrant, but has some other relationship with the registrant that would cause a reasonable investor to question whether the registrant and the issuer are independent of each other for purposes of the distribution. Refer to NI 33-105 and the related guidance in Companion Policy 33-105CP for more information.

- 23.(2) A funding portal may accept securities of an issuer as payment of portal access fees or other similar fees, provided that the payment by the issuer does not result in the funding portal holding securities of the issuer that exceed the limit set out in subsection 23(2) [Restricted dealing activities]. However, an investment by a funding portal in an issuer that intends to distribute securities through the funding portal, including an investment in the form of securities accepted as payment for fees, may give rise to a conflict of interest. Accordingly, we expect the funding portal to comply with the conflicts of interest provisions in Division 2 of Part 13 of NI 31-103 and related provisions in 31-103CP.

Advertising and general solicitation

24. A funding portal cannot advertise the distribution or solicit purchasers, except as permitted in subsection 24(2) [Advertising and general solicitation]. Any solicitation or marketing activities, either in print or electronic form that targets specific individuals in connection with a distribution under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption would be a contravention of section 24 [Advertising and general solicitation].

A funding portal is not permitted to recommend or endorse a particular issuer or distribution, which includes accepting payment or other benefits from an issuer to highlight or showcase the issuer or its distribution. Such conduct would be considered to be inconsistent with the restriction in section 24 [Advertising and general solicitation]. However, a funding portal may advertise its business operations. For example, a funding portal may advertise that it is in the business of distributing securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption.

Access to funding portal

25. Section 25 [Access to funding portal] requires a funding portal to obtain a Form 45-108F5 Personal Information Form and Authorization to Collect, Use and Disclose Personal Information (Form 45-108F5) from each director, executive officer and promoter of an issuer prior to allowing the issuer access to the funding portal for the purposes of posting a distribution.

Funding portals should ensure all questions in Form 45-108F5 have been answered and additional details provided, where necessary.

At a minimum, we expect the following checks to be conducted by a funding portal:

- (a) regarding issuers:
 - (i) the existence of the issuer and its business registration, including a review of the issuer's constating documents;
 - (ii) securities and disciplinary enforcement history checks;
 - (iii) bankruptcy check; and
 - (iv) court record check, where available; and
- (b) regarding directors, executive officers and promoters of the issuer:
 - (i) criminal record and securities and disciplinary enforcement history checks;
 - (ii) bankruptcy check; and
 - (iii) court record check, where available.

While we have outlined the minimum steps we expect a funding portal to take in conducting background checks on the issuer and criminal records and background checks on each director, executive officer and promoter of the issuer, a registered dealer funding portal must also take steps to ensure compliance with its regulatory obligations under securities legislation. For example, we would not consider the minimum checks and requirements outlined in this section by a registered dealer funding portal to be adequate compliance with its know-your-product obligation.

A funding portal may retain a third party to perform these checks. However, the funding portal is responsible and accountable for all functions that it outsources to a third party. A funding portal should have a written agreement that sets out the responsibilities of the parties to the arrangement. A funding portal should consider the guidance provided in Part 11 of 31-103CP on outsourcing.

Issuer access agreement

26. We expect the funding portal and the issuer to enter into a written agreement that sets out all material terms and conditions of the arrangement under which a funding portal will grant the issuer access to its online platform. Although section 26 [Issuer access agreement] prescribes certain minimum requirements that must be included in an issuer access agreement, we encourage the funding portal and the issuer to also set out other key terms and conditions that will govern the arrangement.

Obligation to review materials of eligible crowdfunding issuer

- 27.(2) If, after reviewing the crowdfunding offering document, the materials referred to in subsection 12(1) [Additional distribution materials], the personal information forms, the results of the criminal record and background checks, and any other information about the issuer or the distribution made available to the funding portal or of which the funding portal is aware, the funding portal determines the disclosure in the crowdfunding offering document and other materials referred to in subsection 12(1) [Additional distribution materials] is incorrect, incomplete or misleading, it must require the issuer to correct, complete or clarify the disclosure in the crowdfunding offering document and other permitted materials prior to posting on the funding portal's online platform. For example:
- (a) if an issuer's constating documents indicate that the "common shares" contain restrictions on voting or contain redemption rights that allow the issuer to redeem the shares in certain circumstances, or that insiders or promoters of the issuer hold another class of securities that have multiple votes, and the crowdfunding offering document does not contain this disclosure, the funding portal must not grant the issuer access to the funding portal for the purposes of distributing its securities until it is satisfied that the crowdfunding offering document accurately describes the securities being distributed, the capital structure of the issuer, including the percentage ownership of the outstanding securities of the issuer held by the insiders and promoters, and any rights not otherwise available to purchasers;

- (b) if an issuer is part of an issuer group, and the issuer's interest in the business or the assets of the business are owned through one or more subsidiaries, the funding portal should understand the features and risks of the capital structure of the issuer group and assess whether the issuer's disclosures adequately disclose these risks.

Nothing in the Instrument prevents a funding portal from establishing additional criteria that an issuer must satisfy or meet in order to distribute its securities through the funding portal. A funding portal should establish additional criteria or due diligence checks to grant or deny access by an issuer to its online platform for any reason, including any concern of the funding portal that:

- (a) the issuer may not be financially responsible in the conduct of its business; or
- (b) the issuer has not complied with, or is not complying with, securities legislation or the undertakings, terms and conditions agreed to by the issuer in connection with a distribution under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption or otherwise.

Denial of issuer access and termination

28.(1) Funding portals are expected to play a gatekeeper role in attempting to ensure that issuers comply with the requirements of the crowdfunding prospectus exemption and to maintain the integrity of the capital markets. We expect funding portals to have policies and procedures in place to carry out their gatekeeper function, including measures to reduce the risk of fraud in securities-based crowdfunding. These policies and procedures should include the steps a funding portal follows to review and assess the issuer, the distribution, the crowdfunding offering document and the materials described in subsection 12(1) [Additional distribution materials]. At a minimum, we expect a funding portal to:

- establish the identity of an issuer, such as obtaining and reviewing the issuer's articles of incorporation or other constating documents;
- determine the nature of the issuer's business; and
- review the responses provided in Form 45-108F5 and the results of the criminal record and background checks.

If, after reviewing the information provided to the funding portal under the Instrument and any other information about the issuer or the distribution made available to the funding portal or of which the funding portal is aware, the funding portal identifies any discrepancies or causes for concern about an issuer, its directors, executive officers or promoters, the distribution, the crowdfunding offering document or the materials described in subsection 12(1) [Additional distribution materials], the funding portal must make all reasonable inquiries to resolve the discrepancies or concerns. This may include asking additional questions of the issuer and its management and ensuring the answers provided resolve the concern to the satisfaction of the funding portal or obtaining and reviewing additional documentation. We expect the funding portal to consider the discrepancy or concern in its determination as to whether or not to grant an issuer access to its online platform.

We expect a funding portal to deny access to an issuer if based on the information the funding portal has, it appears to the funding portal that the issuer has not satisfied the conditions in subsection 28(1) [Denial of issuer access and termination]. For example, if it appears to the funding portal that upon a good faith determination the business of the issuer may not be conducted with integrity, including where the funding portal believes the issuer or the distribution is part of a scheme to defraud investors, the funding portal must deny the issuer access. If certain executive officers of the issuer reside in a jurisdiction where background checks and securities and disciplinary enforcement history checks are not readily available to the funding portal, it may determine that it is unable to assess whether the business of the issuer will be conducted with integrity, and thus must deny the issuer access to its platform.

Monitoring purchaser communications

32. A funding portal that establishes an online communication channel, such as a blog or chat room, should have detailed written policies and procedures that outline the steps the funding portal will take to ensure compliance with section 32 [Monitoring purchaser communications]. For example, a funding portal may require issuers and purchasers to register to use the online communication channel and each will be assigned a user code or client identifier that enables the funding portal to track the communications of each participant.

If, for example, a purchaser makes an incorrect statement on the blog that the price per share is too high at $50, when the crowdfunding offering document states the price per share is $10, the funding portal would not be required to remove the statement. However, the issuer would be permitted to correct the price through a statement on the blog that the price per share is $10. If, in another example, an issuer makes a statement on the blog that describes how its product works and that information was not disclosed in the crowdfunding offering document, then the funding portal must remove the statement as it is inconsistent with the crowdfunding offering document. However, in this example, an issuer could make a clarifying statement as to how its product works, if necessary, to address a misconception or misunderstanding expressed by a purchaser on the blog.

Online platform acknowledgement

33. Prior to a person or company entering a funding portal's online platform, the funding portal must take reasonable steps to confirm that the person or company understands the risks of investing in securities posted on the funding portal and is advised whether they will or will not receive suitability advice depending on the type of dealer operating the funding portal. We expect that these acknowledgements will be completed electronically through the funding portal and that the funding portal's books and records will include evidence that the funding portal has satisfied this obligation.

Purchaser requirements prior to purchase

34. Prior to a purchaser entering into an agreement to purchase securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption, a funding portal must obtain from a purchaser:
- (a) a risk acknowledgment form in which the purchaser has positively answered all questions;
 - (b) except in Ontario, confirmation and validation that the purchaser is an accredited investor if the acquisition cost is greater than $2,500; and
 - (c) in Ontario, a confirmation of investment limits form and validation of the information contained in the form regardless of the acquisition cost to the purchaser.

A funding portal must not permit a purchaser to acquire securities of the issuer if the purchaser has responded negatively to any of the questions in the risk acknowledgment form.

We anticipate that (a) the risk acknowledgement form, (b) the confirmation and validation of the purchaser's investor status, and (c) where applicable, the confirmation of investment limits form will be completed online through the funding portal facilitating the distribution.

A funding portal should take reasonable steps to confirm that each purchaser proposing to participate in a crowdfunding distribution through its online platform understands and complies with the applicable investment limits. A funding portal must have appropriate policies and procedures in place to confirm and verify the purchaser's investor status, the applicable investment limits and whether the purchaser is in compliance with the applicable investment limits. In Ontario, these procedures must include obtaining a Form 45-108F3 from the purchaser prior to accepting any funds from the purchaser. The funding portal should review the risk acknowledgement form and in Ontario, also review the confirmation of investment limits form to ensure they have been properly completed and executed. If a purchaser specifies that it is an accredited investor or a permitted client, the funding portal will have to obtain further information from the purchaser in order to determine whether the purchaser has the requisite income or assets to meet the terms of the accredited investor or permitted client definition.

Division 3: Additional requirements, restricted dealer funding portal

Prohibition on providing recommendations or advice

39. Section 39 [Prohibition on providing recommendations or advice] provides that a restricted dealer funding portal and a registered individual of the restricted dealer funding portal must not provide a recommendation or advice to a purchaser in connection with a distribution under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption or other trades in a security. This means a restricted dealer funding portal cannot tell a purchaser that the securities are a good investment, that the securities meet the purchaser's investment needs or objectives, or that the purchaser should, for whatever reason, buy the securities.

Some activities may be considered bona fide activities of a restricted dealer funding portal provided that a reasonable person would not construe those activities to be the restricted dealer funding portal providing a recommendation or advice to a purchaser. These activities could include:

- (a) using objective criteria to limit the crowdfunding distributions on the funding portal if the objective criteria are disclosed on the funding portal and applied consistently to all distributions on the funding portal;
- (b) providing general information and educational materials to purchasers about crowdfunding distributions if the information is presented in a fair, balanced and reasonable manner;
- (c) providing search functions or other tools for purchasers to search, sort or categorize crowdfunding distributions available on the funding portal if the search functions are based on objective criteria;
- (d) distributing information on the funding portal about a particular issuer or offering to a purchaser based on selection criteria identified by a purchaser; and
- (e) providing communication channels or discussion boards to enable purchasers in a crowdfunding distribution to communicate with one another and with representatives of the issuer about a crowdfunding distribution displayed on the funding portal if a communication by a person can be traced back to its author and the funding portal complies with its obligations in section 32 [Monitoring purchaser communication].

Restriction on Lending – A restricted dealer funding portal must comply with section 13.12 of NI 31-103 which provides that a registrant must not lend money, extend credit or provide margin to a client. Further, paragraph 39(b) [Prohibition on providing recommendations or advice] provides that a restricted dealer funding portal must not recommend that a purchaser use borrowed money to finance any part of the purchase of securities of the issuer under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption. This activity creates a conflict of interest which cannot be properly managed.

To the extent that products sold to a purchaser are structured in a way that results in the restricted dealer funding portal becoming a lender to the purchaser, we will consider the restricted dealer funding portal not to be in compliance with the prohibition in section 13.12 of NI 31-103.

Permitted dealing activities

41. Section 41 [Permitted dealing activities] provides that a restricted dealer funding portal and a registered individual of the restricted dealer funding portal may only act as an intermediary in connection with a distribution of securities made in reliance on the crowdfunding prospectus exemption and, except in Ontario, a distribution of securities made in reliance on a start-up crowdfunding registration and prospectus exemptive relief order granted by a securities regulatory authority or regulator. This means that a restricted dealer funding portal is not permitted to engage in a broader range of dealing or advising activities, such as
- (a) facilitating distributions of securities in reliance on other prospectus exemptions,
 - (b) facilitating resales of securities acquired by a purchaser to accredited investors or to other purchasers who are eligible to purchase securities on a prospectus-exempt basis, or
 - (c) providing underwriting or underwriting-related services to issuers except as otherwise permitted by the Instrument.

The limitation on dealing activities applies only to activities in connection with a distribution of securities under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption and, except in Ontario, a distribution of securities under a start-up crowdfunding exemptive relief order granted by a securities regulatory authority or regulator. A funding portal may engage in other types of crowdfunding activities that do not involve a distribution of securities, including facilitating crowdfunding activities based on a donation model, a reward model or a pre-purchase model. To the extent that a funding portal does engage in crowdfunding activities that do not involve a distribution of securities, it should have separate books and records for its non-securities related crowdfunding activities.

Chief Compliance Officer

42. A restricted dealer funding portal is required to have a UDP and a CCO. The UDP and the CCO can be the same person if they meet the requirements for both registration categories. We prefer funding portals to separate these functions, but we recognize that for a restricted dealer funding portal, it might not be practical.

Section 42 [Chief compliance officer] sets out the proficiency requirements for a CCO of a restricted dealer funding portal. The regulator is required to determine an individual's fitness for registration and may exercise discretion in so doing.

The regulator may grant an exemption from any of the education requirements in paragraphs 42(a) and (b) [Chief compliance officer] for the CCO of a restricted dealer funding portal if it is satisfied that the individual has qualifications or relevant experience that are equivalent to, or more relevant in the circumstances than, the prescribed requirements.

The experience requirement in paragraph 42(c) [Chief compliance officer] may include experience acquired:

- during employment as or with a registered dealer, a registered adviser or an investment fund manager;
- in related investment fields, such as investment banking, advisory services, venture capital or private equity;
- in legal, accounting or consulting practices; or
- in other professional fields that relate to capital raising business activities.

Proficiency

43. Section 43 [Proficiency] requires an individual of a restricted dealer funding portal to have the education, training and experience, among other things, to understand the structure, features and risks of the distribution. At a minimum, to comply with the proficiency requirements set out in section 43 [Proficiency], we expect a restricted dealer funding portal to review and assess the crowdfunding offering document, the materials referred to in subsection 12(1) [Additional distribution materials], the issuer's articles of incorporation and other constating documents. The restricted dealer funding portal must be able to evidence their review of the information provided by the issuer. If the information provided by the issuer is not sufficient to enable the restricted dealer funding portal to understand the structure, features and risks of the distribution, the funding portal must make further inquiries with the issuer to satisfy the proficiency requirement.

Examples of the structure, features and risks of the distribution include:

- return on the investment;
- fee structure;
- time horizon;
- liquidity risk;
- conflict of interest risk; and
- issuer's financial position.

MISCELLANEOUS

Resale of securities distributed under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption

Securities acquired under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption are subject to resale restrictions. Securities of a reporting issuer acquired under the crowdfunding prospectus exemption are subject to a four-month hold period. Securities of a non-reporting issuer cannot be resold in a jurisdiction:

- (a) until the issuer becomes a reporting issuer and certain other conditions are met; or
- (b) unless the sale is made under another available prospectus exemption.

The crowdfunding prospectus exemption is not available for distributions by selling security holders. Refer to National Instrument 45-102 Resale of Securities.

Summary of Notable Changes to the March 2014 45-108 Materials

Summary of Notable Changes to the March 2014 45-108 Materials

Crowdfunding exemption

We have made certain changes to provisions relating to the crowdfunding exemption, specifically the following:

- investment limits,
- facilitating investments by lead investors,
- eligibility of issuers to use the crowdfunding exemption,
- aggregate minimum proceeds,
- point of sale disclosure,
- financial statements,
- notice of discontinuation of the issuer's business, change in industry or change of control, and
- investors' right of withdrawal.

Investment limits

(a) Investment limits for non-accredited investors

The March 2014 45-108 materials provided that an investor would not be permitted to invest:

- more than $2,500 in a single investment under the crowdfunding exemption, or
- more than $10,000 in total under the crowdfunding exemption in a calendar year.

We continue to think that investment limits for non-accredited investors are a critical investor protection measure. Ontario has retained both of these investment limits for a non-accredited investor. The other participating jurisdictions have retained the $2,500 limit for a single investment by a non-accredited investor under the crowdfunding exemption but are not imposing an annual investment limit.

(b) Investment limits for accredited investors in the 45-108 crowdfunding regime

The March 2014 45-108 materials provided that an accredited investor that purchased securities under the crowdfunding exemption would be subject to the same investment limits as other investors. The March 2014 45-108 materials did, however, allow an issuer to distribute securities under another prospectus exemption such as the accredited investor exemption simultaneously with the distribution of securities under the crowdfunding exemption.

We specifically requested comment on whether an accredited investor should be permitted to make larger investments under the crowdfunding exemption.

Based on the comments we received, we have made the following revisions:

- we will impose a $25,000 per investment limit, and in Ontario, will also impose a $50,000 annual limit for an accredited investor that is not a permitted client, and
- in Ontario, we will not place investment limits on an investor that is a permitted client.

We think that higher investment limits for an accredited investor, and in Ontario, no investment limits for a permitted client, are appropriate given that these investors either have the ability to withstand financial loss or the resources to obtain financial advice. A tiered approach to investment limits will allow accredited investors and permitted clients to invest larger amounts alongside retail investors, which may assist issuers to raise the desired amount of capital as set out in the crowdfunding offering document, and may potentially generate higher revenues for funding portals. This, in turn, may contribute to both the efficacy of crowdfunding as a tool for raising capital for early-stage businesses and the economic viability of funding portals.

(c) Compliance with investment limits

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, securities could not be distributed to a purchaser under the crowdfunding exemption if the amount invested exceeded the prescribed investment limits.

In the final Rule, we have maintained these requirements to support compliance with the investment limits. In addition, we now require as a condition of closing a distribution under the crowdfunding exemption:

- in the participating jurisdictions other than Ontario, confirmation and validation that the purchaser is an accredited investor if the acquisition cost is greater than $2,500, and
- in Ontario, a confirmation from the investor of their investor status and that the investor has purchased securities within the applicable investment limits.

Facilitating investments by lead investors

Lead investors can play a valuable role in crowdfunding as they may have the incentive and the capability to provide valuable signalling to other investors. We have therefore introduced two measures that will facilitate lead investors carrying out these functions. First, as noted above, we have introduced:

- higher investment limits for accredited investors, and
- in Ontario, no investment limits for investors that are permitted clients.

Second, we have amended the Rule to remove the requirement that all securities distributed by an issuer during the crowdfunding distribution period have the same price, terms and conditions. An issuer will now be permitted to distribute securities under other prospectus exemptions during this period with different prices, terms and conditions from those being distributed under the crowdfunding exemption. This change provides flexibility for an issuer and may foster a lead investor role in a crowdfunding distribution where the lead investor can provide skills and expertise in management for the benefit of all investors. Depending on the nature and timing of the concurrent distribution, the crowdfunding offering document may require amendment to reflect the concurrent distribution.

An accredited investor that acts as a lead investor should be mindful of the potential registration requirements that arise if the lead investor engages in trading or advising activities.

Eligibility of issuers to use the crowdfunding exemption

(a) Real estate issuers

The March 2014 45-108 materials prohibited non-reporting real estate issuers from using the crowdfunding exemption. A real estate issuer was defined as a real estate investment trust, a mortgage investment entity, or a person that primarily invests in, or develops, real estate, or derives its revenues primarily from investments in real estate. We sought specific comment on whether this restriction was appropriate. Several commenters thought it would be inappropriate to prohibit a particular industry sector from being able to rely on the crowdfunding exemption and that it should therefore be available to all real estate issuers. Commenters noted that one industry is not necessarily riskier than another.

After considering the comments received, we removed the prohibition on non-reporting real estate issuers from distributing their securities under the crowdfunding exemption. We will monitor the industry of the issuers which use the crowdfunding exemption as part of our exempt market oversight.

(b) Jurisdiction of incorporation or organization of principal operating subsidiary

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, both the issuer, and if applicable, the parent and the principal operating subsidiary of the issuer were required to be incorporated or organized under the laws of Canada or a jurisdiction of Canada. The rationale for these restrictions was two-fold:

- to avoid concerns associated with an issuer in a foreign jurisdiction which may not have the comparable investor protections in its constating statute as are found in Canadian legislation, and
- to facilitate capital raising for Canadian issuers, one of the key objectives of the crowdfunding initiative.

We continue to think that requiring that an issuer be incorporated or organized under the laws of Canada or a jurisdiction of Canada, is consistent with our objectives.

We have, however, permitted the principal operating subsidiary of an issuer to be incorporated or organized under the laws of Canada, a jurisdiction of Canada, the laws of the United States, or a jurisdiction of the United States to be an eligible crowdfunding issuer. We think this will provide greater flexibility for issuers in structuring their affairs without compromising investor protection or our objectives as described above.

Aggregate minimum proceeds

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, a distribution made in reliance on the crowdfunding exemption could not be completed unless the minimum amount of funds to be raised, as specified in the crowdfunding offering document, had been subscribed for and, at the time of the completion of the offering, the issuer had financial resources sufficient to achieve the next milestone, or to carry out the business activities, set out in its written business plan.

We have revised the Rule to require that, as a condition of closing, an issuer must have raised aggregate minimum proceeds that are sufficient to accomplish the business objectives of the issuer that are described in the crowdfunding offering document. The aggregate minimum proceeds may be raised through one or both of: (i) the distribution; and (ii) any concurrent distributions by any member of the issuer group provided the proceeds from those distributions are unconditionally available to the issuer at the time of closing of the distribution. In the crowdfunding offering document, the issuer is required to describe each business objective, and the estimated time period and costs to accomplish it.

We think that requiring an issuer to have raised sufficient proceeds to accomplish its business objectives and to disclose each objective and the time period and costs associated with accomplishing the objective will provide significant protection to investors and meaningful information on which to base an investment decision.

Point of sale disclosure

(a) Streamlined crowdfunding offering document

We have streamlined the disclosure requirements in the crowdfunding offering document and have more closely aligned them with the requirements for an offering document used under the start-up crowdfunding exemptions. We think this will make the document easier for investors to read and understand while still requiring issuers to provide investors with all of the information they need to know about the issuer and its business before investing. It may also be more cost-effective and faster for issuers to prepare.

(b) Forms of certificate for reporting issuers versus non-reporting issuers

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, an issuer was required to certify that the crowdfunding offering document did not contain a misrepresentation. We continue to require this certification for reporting issuers.

However, we have amended the certificate requirement for non-reporting issuers. A non-reporting issuer will now be required to certify that its crowdfunding offering document does not contain an untrue statement of material fact.

We think that this standard of liability will allow a start-up or SME to provide a more streamlined crowdfunding offering document, which will provide all relevant information to investors and provide adequate investor protection. Further, this standard largely aligns with the standard of liability in the start-up crowdfunding exemption, which only applies to non-reporting issuers.

(c) Risk acknowledgement form

Investors are provided with a RAF to complete before they make their investment. We have revised the RAF to closely align with the equivalent form used in the start-up crowdfunding exemptions. We think the revised RAF will better reinforce the risks of a potential investment to an investor, including that the investor may lose his, her or its entire investment. The revised RAF requires an investor to positively confirm that the investor has read and understood the risk warnings and the information in the crowdfunding offering document.

Financial statements

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, a non-reporting issuer's financial statements were required to be reviewed by an independent public accounting firm if the issuer had not raised more than $500,000 under the crowdfunding exemption or any other prospectus exemption since its formation or expended more than $150,000 since that time. The issuer's financial statements were required to be audited if both of those thresholds were exceeded.

We have simplified the thresholds and slightly raised the threshold amounts. A non-reporting issuer's financial statements must now be reviewed by an independent public accounting firm or be audited if the issuer has raised $250,000 or more but less than $750,000 under one or more prospectus exemptions since its formation, and be audited if it has raised $750,000 or more.

We think these thresholds strike an appropriate balance between providing investors with reliable financial information and not imposing a disproportionate financial burden on start-ups and SMEs that have limited financial resources to pursue their business.

Notice of discontinuation of the issuer's business, change in industry or change of control

The March 2014 45-108 materials contemplated that non-reporting issuers would be required to provide notice to investors of the following specified events within 10 days of the event occurring:

- a fundamental change in the nature, or a discontinuation, of the issuer's business,
- a significant change to the issuer's capital structure,
- a major reorganization, amalgamation or merger involving the issuer,
- a take-over bid, issuer bid or insider bid involving the issuer,
- a significant acquisition or disposition of assets, property or joint venture interests, and
- changes to the issuer's board of directors or executive officers, including the departure of the issuer's chief executive officer, chief financial officer, chief operating officer or president or persons acting in similar capacities.

The final amendments require that in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario, non-reporting issuers provide notice to investors of a streamlined list of key events within 10 days of the event occurring, as follows:

- a discontinuation of the issuer's business,
- a change in the issuer's industry, and
- a change of control of the issuer.

The final amendments also prescribe a form – Form 45-108F4 Notice of Specified Key Events – that sets parameters as to the nature and comprehensiveness of the information that is required to be provided to investors.

Investors' right of withdrawal

The March 2014 45-108 materials provided that an issuer that offers securities under the crowdfunding exemption must provide an investor with a contractual right to withdraw an offer or agreement to purchase the security by delivering a notice to the issuer within at least 48 hours prior to the date of completion of the distribution disclosed in the issuer's crowdfunding offering document.

The Rule has been amended such that the purchaser will have a right of withdrawal that expires 48 hours after the date of the agreement to purchase securities and any subsequent amendment to the crowdfunding offering document. This 48-hour right of withdrawal will provide the purchaser with a "cooling off" period to consider the disclosure provided and reflect on his or her investment decision while also providing the issuer certainty about the amount of its offering that has been subscribed.

Funding Portal Requirements

We have made certain changes to provisions relating to the registration regime for funding portals, specifically the following:

- use of the crowdfunding exemption by registrants,
- custodial requirements,
- restricted dealer funding portal requirements,
- access by issuers to a funding portal's online platform,
- access by investors to the funding portal's online platform, and
- operational requirements.

Use of the crowdfunding exemption by registrants

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, the only entity that could distribute securities under the crowdfunding exemption was a funding portal registered solely as a restricted dealer, for the sole purpose of distributing securities under the crowdfunding exemption. The entity could not be registered in any other registration category. Exempt market dealers and other registered firms were not permitted to distribute securities under the proposed crowdfunding exemption.

Based on feedback we received, the final Rule allows exempt market dealers and investment dealers to distribute securities in reliance on the crowdfunding exemption. These firms are required to comply with all of their obligations as an exempt market dealer or as an investment dealer, as the case may be, including conducting client-specific know-your-client, know-your product and suitability, in addition to the applicable requirements and restrictions set out in the Rule, such as the restriction on advertising and solicitation.

However, a funding portal registered as a restricted dealer is a specialized type of restricted dealer that can only rely on the crowdfunding exemption, and other than in Ontario, on the start-up crowdfunding exemption, to facilitate distributions of simple securities. In light of the limited activities of the restricted dealer funding portal, they will not be required to conduct a suitability assessment for the investor and will not assess the merits or expected returns of an investment. Rather, the restricted dealer funding portal will provide a gatekeeper role focused on compliance by issuers with the requirements of the Rule. Considering the limited activities of the restricted dealer funding portal, we continue to believe that a funding portal that is registered as a restricted dealer in accordance with the Rule should not be registered in any other registration category, and, in Ontario, cannot be affiliated with another registered firm.

Custodial requirements

The March 2014 45-108 materials prohibited a funding portal from holding, handling or having access to a purchaser's funds or assets. The funding portal was required to arrange for a Canadian financial institution:

- (a) to hold in trust all funds or consideration received from a potential purchaser in connection with a distribution of a security under the crowdfunding exemption until midnight on the second business day after the purchaser agreed to purchase the security, and
- (b) to return all funds or consideration to the purchaser promptly if the purchaser exercised the right to cancel the agreement to purchase the security.

Based on the comments we received, we have amended the restriction as set out in the March 2014 45-108 materials such that the restricted dealer funding portal will now be permitted to hold, handle, control or have access to purchaser funds or assets as long as they maintain minimum capital and fidelity bond insurance. We believe that investor funds and assets will be better protected if the funding portal is subject to capital and insurance requirements.

Restricted dealer funding portal requirements

(a) Permitted activities

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, a funding portal was only allowed to distribute securities under the crowdfunding exemption.

We have retained this restriction in Ontario as the start-up crowdfunding exemptions is not available in Ontario. However, in the participating jurisdictions other than Ontario, a funding portal will be allowed to act as an intermediary in connection with securities offerings pursuant to both the crowdfunding exemption and the start-up crowdfunding exemptions.

(b) Chief compliance officer

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, a funding portal was required to designate an individual to be the Chief Compliance Officer (CCO). The individual designated by the funding portal was required to comply with the proficiency requirements for an exempt market dealer CCO.

We have retained the requirement for a CCO. However, a restricted dealer funding portal is a specialized type of restricted dealer that can only rely on the crowdfunding exemption, and other than in Ontario, on the start-up crowdfunding exemptions, to facilitate distributions of simple securities. Additionally, the restricted dealer funding portal will not be required to conduct a suitability assessment for the investor and will not assess the merits or expected returns of an investment. In light of the specialized nature of restricted dealer funding portals and their limited permitted dealing activities, the CCO proficiency requirements for a restricted dealer funding portal has been amended such that the individual may have 12 months of experience and training that a reasonable person would consider necessary to perform the activities of a CCO for a restricted dealer funding portal, instead of the experience requirements for an exempt market dealer CCO. We believe this change strikes an appropriate balance between sufficient proficiency of a restricted dealer funding portal CCO and the specialized nature of a restricted dealer funding portal and its limited permitted dealing activities.

Access by issuers to a funding portal's online platform

(a) Background checks

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, we required a funding portal to obtain from each director, executive officer, and promoter of the issuer a completed personal information form that contained substantially the same information as set out in Appendix A to National Instrument 41-101 General Prospectus Requirements. The funding portal was required to review the forms and conduct criminal records and background checks on the issuer and its directors, executive officers, and promoters. We also required that the funding portal, as agent of the issuer, file a copy of the completed personal information forms and the results of the criminal records and other background checks with the principal regulator.

We continue to require funding portals to carry out this gatekeeper function. However, since funding portals are responsible for obtaining personal information forms, ensuring that criminal record and background checks are conducted, and reviewing this information, we no longer require funding portals to file a copy of the completed personal information forms and the results of criminal record and other background checks with the principal regulator. These documents will now be retained by the funding portal and will be provided to the securities regulatory authorities or regulators upon request.

Finally, we developed a new form – Form 45-108F5 Personal Information Form and Authorization to Collect, Use and Disclose Personal Information – for the crowdfunding regime which reflects the funding portals' gatekeeper role.

(b) Denial of issuer access

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, a funding portal was required to deny an issuer access to the funding portal's online platform if the funding portal had made a good faith determination that the issuer or the offering was a fraud, or that the issuer's offering documents or other materials contain a statement or information that is false, deceptive, misleading or that constitutes a misrepresentation, or if the business of the issuer may not be conducted with integrity and in the best interests of security holders, or the issuer is not complying with the Rule. In addition, a funding portal was required to ensure that the issuer's crowdfunding offering document disclosed certain information, including prior bankruptcies or insolvencies, cease trade or other similar orders, and certain penalties and sanctions.

We have maintained the requirement that a funding portal deny access where it makes a good faith determination that the business of the issuer may not be conducted with integrity; however we have removed the requirement to make a good faith determination that the issuer or the distribution is fraudulent. We believe that investors will continue to be protected against potential fraudulent distributions since a funding portal that makes a good faith determination that the issuer or the distribution is fraudulent or the business of the issuer may not be conducted in the best interests of security holders will also conclude that the business of the issuer may not be conducted with integrity. As such, the standard that the business of the issuer may not be conducted with integrity, will encompass the fraudulent conduct.

Access by investors to the funding portal's online platform

(a) Required online platform disclosure

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, a funding portal was required to take reasonable steps to ensure that potential purchasers accessing the funding portal's online platform understand the high risk nature of an investment made under the crowdfunding exemption, and to include on its online platform the following prominent disclosure:

- no securities regulatory authority or regulator has approved or expressed an opinion about the securities offered on the registered funding portal's online platform,
- "A crowdfunding investment is highly risky. You may lose all your investment and you may not be able to sell any securities you purchase.", and
- a description of all compensation, including fees, costs and other expenses that the registered funding portal may charge to, or impose on, an issuer or purchaser.

We have retained these requirements but have amended the Rule so that, prior to allowing a person or company entry to its online platform, a funding portal must require the person or company to acknowledge:

- that the person or company may receive limited ongoing information about the issuer and an investment made through the funding portal, and
- that the person or company is entering an online platform operated by a funding portal that is either (a) registered in the category of restricted dealer and will not provide advice about the suitability of the purchase of the security; or (b) registered in the category of investment dealer or exempt market dealer and is required to provide advice about the suitability of the purchase of the security.

We believe these requirements will better reinforce the risks of a potential investment to an investor and inform the investor whether they will receive suitability advice depending on the type of dealer operating the funding portal.

(b) Dispute resolution services

In the final version of the Rule, we have clarified that a funding portal registered in the restricted dealer category is not required to make available the independent dispute resolution services of the Ombudsman for Banking Services and Investments (OBSI) for clients of the restricted dealer funding portal. The CSA continues to remain supportive of the services provided by OBSI; however, given the limited scope of activities of the restricted dealer funding portal, including that it does not provide suitability advice or make recommendations, we believe that the costs associated with membership in OBSI would outweigh the benefits that may flow to investors. We expect complaints regarding restricted dealer funding portals will be submitted to the regulators. The participating jurisdictions intend to closely monitor complaints relating to restricted dealer funding portals.

Funding portals registered in the exempt market dealer or investment dealer category continue to be subject to the requirement that OBSI be made available to clients of those firms.

Operational Requirements

(a) Monitoring communications on the funding portal's online platform

In the March 2014 45-108 materials, where a funding portal offered a discussion board or other means of communication between investors and/or between an issuer and its investors, the funding portal was required to monitor the postings in order to confirm that the issuer was not making any statement or providing information which is inconsistent with the crowdfunding offering document or is not in compliance with the Rule. The funding portal was also required to remove any material that it deemed inappropriate, or that raised investor protection concerns.

In the final Rule, we have clarified this requirement such that the funding portal must remove any statement or information which is inconsistent with the crowdfunding offering document or is not in compliance with the Rule.

(b) Other operational requirements

In the final version of the Rule, we introduced new requirements that set out:

- when a funding portal must remove from its online platform the crowdfunding offering document and all other permitted materials,
- what actions a funding portal must take when there is an amendment to the crowdfunding offering document and other permitted materials,
- when a funding portal is to return funds or assets received from a purchaser,
- what steps are to be taken by the funding portal prior to a purchaser entering into an agreement to purchase securities, including requirements related to confirmation of an investor's status and the applicable investment limits,
- what information a funding portal is required to deliver to the issuer on the closing of the distribution, and
- when a funding portal may release funds to the issuer.

These requirements are intended to ensure consistent practices between funding portals and issuers in certain areas. These requirements also help facilitate the communication of information between a funding portal and an issuer, particularly as certain information that one party requires may be held by the other party.
